Robert Butcher
Mixed Media

Robert has lived in Chalfont St Giles for over 25 years. His professional background is as a Filmmaker and Creative Director working on international visitor experiences and brand activations, but art is both his new & old love. While he had often taken a notepad on holiday, or penned some pictures on the tablecloths of Europe, he began sketching in earnest during lockdown in 2020. It was the first time he had properly revisited this talent since leaving Art School in the 1980's. Today, his work engages with a broad range of styles and subjects, from quick and energetic charcoal life drawings to detailed and considered oil paintings. He has a passion for sketching people and architecture from real life. Robert signs his work 'BZ' because many years ago his two daughters decided to nickname him Bobzy. And the name stuck. He recently completed a series of oil pastel drawings titled "My Colourful Village" depicting key buildings and his favourite places around Chalfont St Giles.

Emma Peel
Intuitive Art

Emma's art continually evolves, allowing for intuition to form colourful, joyous pieces, based on feeling.

Embracing the non-conformative trend of mixed media, this allows Emma to play with texture, to convey the emotion that landscape can provide.

Emma works unconventionally, not allowing her disability to become a barrier to creating art, despite not being able to stand for any length of time.

Also affectionately known as Auntie Ems, Emma runs a delightful traditional sweetshop within The Galleria, CSG

Mel Cairns
Ink Portraiture

Mel is an award winning pet portrait artist in Buckinghamshire. She creates pen and ink sketches with quotes to bring us inspiration and motivation every day. Her style is fast and loose to capture the character of her fluffy models.

Mel offers selected British made gifts featuring her inky pawtraits. Best sellers include coasters, tea towels, framed prints and her book "Cats Quotes Other Furry Friends".

Nicola Weaver
Contemporary Abstract Artist

Nicola Weavers is an internationally collected artist working in large-scale mixed media abstraction. Her work has been acquired by private clients including members of the Royal Family, high-profile collectors, and organisations such as UEFA. Her practice is intuitive and process-led, building and reworking layers to create pieces that are both expressive and deeply emotive.

She will be presenting work from her ongoing collection, Bouquets & Broken Promises — a body of work exploring love, loss, and personal growth. The collection brings together her signature botanical forms alongside more grounded, stone-inspired pieces, reflecting both softness and strength within her practice.

This series remains in progress and continues to evolve throughout the year.

Sue Nowlan
Abstract Landscapes

The themes that inspire me are taken from the world around us, so there are seascapes, landscapes, mountains and skies. I love the freedom and sense of space that is found outside and hope that some of the excitement of standing in the fresh air with your feet on the ground and your head in the skies is communicated somehow through these semi-abstract paintings and drawings. I love to experiment with different media, and you will find work carried out in oil paint, acrylic, mixed media and print. I hope you take some joy in looking at my artistic response to our beautiful planet. 100% of sales money goes towards clean water for people who desperately need it. Simon Brewster
Contemporary Artist

From angelic assemblages to low reliefs and kinetic installations, artist and local art teacher Simon Brewster exhibits work inspired by Milton's only surviving residence, and the place where he completed his epic masterpiece Paradise Lost. On display throughout Bucks Art Weeks, these works respond to the distressed walls, historic architecture, literary collection and unique atmosphere of this Grade I listed, 16th century timber-frame building.

Lisa Webster
Floral Artist

Living in the village that inspired Milton, it's hard not to be fascinated by the nature and history which surrounds me. I use modern and traditional floral preservation methods as well as embroidery and cyanotypes to capture the essential beauty of Chalfont St Giles.
